Message from the President & CEO

Dear Colleagues,

Mass-ALA is proud to partner with 70 local, national, and international businesses that provide crucial services, products, and solutions to assisted living residences in Massachusetts. The Association is excited to present the third edition of the Mass-ALA Business Partners Directory. The purpose of this directory is to introduce you to these valued members of our association and the services they offer. As a Mass-ALA Business Partner, these businesses show that they are dedicated to the assisted living industry. By maintaining active membership, Business Partners add a level of credibility to their brands, receive important industry news, and demonstrate their support of assisted living.

We understand that part of what it means to work in assisted living is that you are busy and always on-the-go. This directory is designed to be a go-to resource that contains quick facts and information that you may need to keep your community running smoothly and efficiently for your residents. Pipe burst? Tree through the roof? Need cleaning or food supplies, fitness, or rehabilitation experts? Want to build an addition? Seeking new ways to keep residents engaged, healthy, and happy? Are you seeking an infection control audit? We have Mass-ALA business partners who can assist you with all of these services and so much more. Please take a few minutes to review this directory and learn what our business partners can do for you. The directory is organized in alphabetical order, by company name. You can also search for a Mass-ALA Business Partner by name, business profession or location at www.mass-ala.org. Remember to keep this directory at your workspace; you just never know when you are going to need their services. We are all partners; working together to provide dignity, choice, and an enhanced quality of life to assisted living residents.

Best Regards,

Brian Doherty, CAE
President & CEO, Mass-ALA

ASSISTED LIVING IN MASSACHUSETTS

Assisted living emphasizes aging with dignity and choice, while offering a high-quality lifestyle in a supportive, non-clinical environment. Residents transitioning from living independently often choose assisted living for a variety of reasons. Many residents receive support with certain activities of daily living (ADLs), such as bathing, dressing, grooming, or mobility. More than 26% of residents live in special memory care living quarters that support the management of Alzheimer's Disease and related dementias. Regardless of need or ability, every resident can benefit from the community atmosphere that sets assisted living apart from many other housing options. With loneliness and social isolation being a concern regarding older adults, assisted living supports residents in staying active, acquiring new hobbies, developing new social connections, and enjoying inclusivity in the community.

Aging presents challenges that evolve over time, but assisted living is rooted in the value that older adults, regardless of age or impairment level, should never be defined by their medical needs. Assisted living promotes wellness through supporting residents with daily hygiene, managing medications, eating healthy and regularly, maintaining a consistent sleep schedule, nurturing social connections, and staying physically active. Upon entering an assisted living community, an individualized assessment takes place and a service plan is developed for each resident, which may be revised over time for each individual, as needs change.

Ferguson Senior Living Consulting is a consulting practice with extensive experience in preparing communities and their teams for EOEA recertification and improving operational excellence. Juggling the intensive needs of keeping residents and staff safe during the Covid 19 pandemic have necessarily shifted every community's time and resources. As a seasoned former Executive Director, Colleen Ferguson completely understands the demands of directing a community. As even the smoothest running communities move forward and refocus on their operations, recertification preparation will need a renewed focus.

A typical recertification review by Ferguson Senior Living Consulting will include business files, wellness files and employee files. While the first component of a recert review will reflect what you can anticipate from the Executive Office of Elder Affairs (EOEA) recert visit, the most important elements are what follows. Each community will receive not only a summary of the findings, but also a resulting proposed action plan. The individualized action plan will provide a guide to resolve the issues, and collaboratively work with the management team to implement customized systems to prevent the reoccurrence of the issues. In addition to recertification reviews, Ferguson Senior Living Consulting has provided a wide spectrum of consulting services. It has been as varied as assisting a developer create policies and procedures for a community in construction to turning around an existing community and preventing it from being shut down. Colleen has served as an interim Executive Director in communities to provide leadership and assist with transitions. Consulting services are customized to meet each community's needs.

Well-run communities drive census. The most effective sales lead is a referral from a happy resident or family member. At a time when many communities are working hard to improve census, a refocus on operational excellence through a recertification review is invaluable.

VoiceFriend is the leading provider of automated notifications and voice technology to senior living communities. Communities using VoiceFriend have increased resident and family attendance at activities, staff productivity and prospect attendance at events. VoiceFriend's Amazon Alexa skills enable residents to become further engaged in the community, while improving their health and wellness.

For regional or corporate executives, VoiceFriend now offers multi-site messaging capabilities. This feature enables executives to send alerts, notifications and reminders to one or more communities from a corporate dashboard. It allows corporate personnel to control content of vital messages to families and it's great for sending corporate instructions or uplifting and thankful notes to staff at various communities.
